

History of the Kinneil Badge

Marjorie Muir (1943-2021)

Where did the Kinneil Primary School and ELC badge come from?

A contest was held to find a new badge for the new Kinneil Primary. Marjorie Muir decided to participate. She researched what the name Kinneil meant and found that it meant 'part of a roman wall'. She designed the above badge and won.

Marjorie passed away in 2021 and recounted to her son that she was proud that she had won the competition and that the Kinneil badge is still the same one used today.

When Marjorie entered the competition, I am sure that she never could have imagined that almost 70 years later, her design would still be used.

This is a great example of how you can take a chance and do something creative and you never know what the impact will be.

Kinneil Primary are proud to continue to use this badge and we remember Marjorie Muir for her lasting impact on Kinneil Primary School.
